

You are invited to attend

Regional Prosperity for Northeast Ohio: Growing Together

How can the communities of Northeast Ohio come together to create an environment for economic prosperity?

What are the connections between job growth, economic development and government collaboration?

What are the next steps?

Please join us for this forum on Thursday, January 27, 2011

4 - 6:30 pm

at Maxine Goodman Levin College of Urban Affairs
Glickman-Miller Hall, Roberta Steinbacher Atrium
Cleveland State University, Cleveland, Ohio

The Growing Together forum will include a moderated panel with state legislators, policymakers and round table discussions for participants. Filmmaker Andrea Torrice will open the forum with clips from the documentary film The New Metropolis, which will be airing on WVIZ TV Cleveland.

All forum events are free and open to the public, but please register online at www.urban.csuohio.edu/forum or call 216.523.7330.

Sponsored by: The Maxine Goodman Levin College of Urban Affairs, Cleveland State University, together with Ideastream, the Civic Commons, Northeast Ohio First Suburbs Consortium, Torrice Productions, Greater Ohio, the Center for Community Solutions and the Regional Prosperity Initiative.

This forum is part of The New Metropolis national civic engagement dialogue series on revitalizing America's older communities. It is made possible through the generous support of the Ford and Surdna Foundations.

For more information, visit:
www.urban.csuohio.edu/forum

ideastream®

Changing Gears

