About this forum

Mayor Frank Jackson

This forum will celebrate the role of Public Administrators in shaping public policy. Workshops will provide insights and strategies for public administrators as well as those considering careers in public administration. Topics include transitioning from the private to the public sector, careers in public administration, and shaping the next generation of leaders. This forum is presented by the National Forum of Black Public Administrators (NFBPA), Cleveland Chapter and the Maxine Goodman Levin College of Urban Affairs.

Commissioner
Peter Lawson Jones

The forum will feature a luncheon keynote address by Frank G. Jackson, Mayor, City of Cleveland on “The Role of the African American Public Administrator” and Peter Lawson Jones, Cuyahoga County Commissioner, speaking at the opening plenary session on “Requirements for the Next Generation of African American Public Administrators.” Mittie Davis Jones, Director of the Urban Child Research Center, Maxine Goodman Levin College of Urban Affairs and an Associate Professor of Urban Studies will do a special presentation on Cleveland State University’s Urban Studies program.

The mission of the NFBPA is embodied in the organization's commitment to strengthen the position of Blacks within the field of public administration; to increase the number of Blacks appointed to executive positions in public service organizations; and, to groom and prepare younger, aspiring administrators for senior public management posts in the years ahead.
