ABOUT THIS FORUM

This forum, entitled “National Health Care Reform: The Ohio Story,” provides a unique opportunity to learn how health care reform will affect consumers, small businesses, insurers and health care providers in the state of Ohio.

Following a short video greeting by Senator Sherrod Brown, Carrie Haughawout from the Ohio Department of Insurance will kick off the program with an update on what the state is doing under health care reform. A panel of experts will then offer their individual perspectives about the effects of the changes. The forum will conclude with an open dialogue between the panelists and participants, who will be invited to ask questions and share their concerns.

ABOUT THIS SERIES

“National Health Care Reform” is a series of three forums created by the Universal Health Care Action Network of Ohio (UHCAN Ohio) to create a dialogue between citizens, government leaders and stakeholders in the businesses of health care. The goal of the forums is to educate consumers by providing objective, factual information about the changes that can be expected as the components of the reform are phased-in. The series is made possible by the generous support of the George Gund Foundation, Kaiser Permanente and the Sisters of Charity Health System.
