About this Forum:

Building a Renewable Energy Economy will continue to explore the advanced energy industry in Northeast Ohio. Keynote speaker, Jerome Ringo, President of the Apollo Alliance, will speak to the potential of the green economy to generate quality jobs and healthier communities while simultaneously curbing global warming and oil dependence. Mr. Ringo will be joined by Paul Oyaski and Joyce Burke-Jones who will talk about advanced energy as an economic development strategy for Cuyahoga County and the Cuyahoga Regional Energy Development Task Force.

The Apollo Alliance is a national organization that “provides a message of optimism and hope, framed around rejuvenating our nation’s economy by creating the next generation of American industrial jobs and treating clean energy as an economic and security mandate to rebuild America.” For more information about Apollo: http://www.apolloalliance.org/about_the_alliance/jeromeringo.cfm

About the Series:

Our Place in the Urban Age is a year-long celebration of the 30th anniversary of the Maxine Goodman Levin College of Urban Affairs at Cleveland State University. Through these forums we are exploring the dynamic role of cities in a world transformed by technology, climate change, modern lifestyles, and a global economy. National and local speakers representing various disciplines and perspectives will be addressing four questions:

- What will America’s urban centers look like in 15, 25, 50 years?
- What economic functions will they serve?
- How will the quality of life change?
- How will Cleveland and Northeast Ohio adapt?

Where the community gathers to discuss challenges, create opportunities, and celebrate accomplishments.
