THE LEVIN COLLEGE FORUM — Where the community gathers to discuss challenges, create opportunities, and celebrate accomplishments.

THE JUST CITY FORUM

ABOUT THE FORUM

Join us to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the Master of Urban Planning, Design and Development (MUPDD) program of the Maxine Goodman Levin College of Urban Affairs, Cleveland State University with some of the most respected and progressive thinkers in the field.

Keynote speaker, Susan Fainstein, will discuss her new book "The Just City" which encourages planners and policymakers to develop programs that assure greater justice in both the process of their formulation and their effects. Norm Krumholz, the pioneer of "Equity Planning," will reflect on ways that cities can provide more choices to those who have few, if any. Pierre Clavel and Ken Reardon, colleagues of Norm's over many years will reflect on progressive planning and planners. Clavel is the leading scholar on progressive cities; his most recent book is Activists in City Hall an in-depth study of progressive administrations in Boston and Chicago during the 1980s. Reardon organized the East St. Louis Action Research Project and later, the People's Plan for the Lower Ninth Ward in post-Katrina New Orleans to assist neighborhood people to plan the rebuilding of their neighborhoods.

They will be joined by Rev. Tracey Lind, Dean of Trinity Episcopal Cathedral, a leading voice for social justice in Cleveland.

ABOUT THE NORMAN KRUMHOLZ SCHOLARSHIP

The Norman Krumholz Scholarship, created in 2004, is awarded annually to a graduate urban planning student in the Master of Urban Planning Design and Development (MUPDD) program who demonstrates an interest in equity planning and/or neighborhood planning.

In September 2009, Planetizen named Professor Norman Krumholz one of the top 100 urban thinkers of all time. Professor Krumholz is widely known as a pioneer of Equity Planning. He received the 2001 Homer C. Wadsworth Award for his advocacy and practice of "equity" planning, the idea that city planning can and should be a means by which communities strive to achieve economic and social justice for all their citizens.

Krumholz's equity planning practice on behalf of the poor and working people of Cleveland has become a national model for planners in other large cities who are struggling to retain their industrial and economic base while making their neighborhoods more livable.

Prior to joining Cleveland State, Krumholz was a planning practitioner in Ithaca, Pittsburgh and Cleveland. He was Cleveland's planning director for ten years under Mayors Carl B. Stokes, Ralph J. Perk and Dennis Kucinich.
